AN ENGINE'S PLUNGE

From the C. & W.'s Tracks Down the River Embankment at Bridgeport, and the Marvellous Escape of Seven Trainmen.

During the dense fog which prevailed yesterday morning two Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling yard engines came into collision just north of the back river steel bridge, fortunately without any serious results.

Engine No. 18, in charge of Engineer Ong and Lockhart, and Conductor Talbert, left the yards for their day's work at Martin's Ferry about 6:45 o'clock and when crossing the steel bridge approach the engineer shut off the steam for the purpose of filling the valve oil cups with oil. The momentum of the engine was not sufficient to carry it far, and when a point about 400 yards north of the bridge had been reached and No. 18 was running very slowly, the second engine, No. 31, in charge of engineers Preston and Hays, and Conductor Rodewig, crashed into the first engine. The force of the shock raised the front end of the engine from the rails, thus breaking its connection with its tender, and derailing the rear drivers. Within a second the first engine plunged cab first for the river.

At this point the embankment is very steep and perhaps fifty feet high, terminating abruptly at the river's edge. In its mad plunge the engine turned once, landing on its side about twenty feet down the bank. Of the five men aboard her all had miraculous escapes. Engineer Ong was the only one injured, and this so slightly that he walked away unassisted. Fireman Lockhart was thrown from the cab with sufficient force to land him in the river unhurt, and Talbert went through the boughs of a willow tree into the mud unscathed.

It has been customary for these engines to follow each other out of the yards in similar manner for months, and but for the dense fog there would have been no accident. The engine now lying on the bank is of a peculiar and old design, being very light and having no wheels except two drivers. It has a had record for staying on the rails. The wreck can be very easily removed, either by laying temporary track along the embankment to the main line, or by loading it on a boat and towing it to the company's float at West Wheeling.

THAT "GOLD" STRIKE

At Steubenville Causes Considerable Excitement—Specimens Sent to Riverside Chemists Here for Analysis.

Very little else has been discussed in Steubenville for two days but the gold discovery at the athletic park there. The premises where the "post hole" claim is located has been visited by hundreds, and the boys did some scratching in the gravel thrown up. The glittering particles found have been examined by expert miners and tested, and pronounced gold. County Surveyor Samuel Huston, of Steubenville, who is an authority on matters pertaining to the glacial age, says that it is more likely that gold would be found in the sand and gravel at Steubenville along what was once the river bed, than in the rock at Muiwen.

The find has enhanced the value of one piece of property near by that was under headway for lease. City Commissioner Henry Opperman says the particles are bits of burnt sulphur which got in the ground there years ago while he was superintending coke ovens at that point.

Superintendent William Crookard, of the Riverside company, on whose ground the find was turned up, and Marshal Selah dug a new hole yesterday morning and the find was very rich. It was divided to be sent to Mingo Junction and Wheeling chemists to be tested.

DEATH OF SAMUEL WORTHINGTON.

Came Back to his Boyhood Home from the West to Die.

Samuel Worthington, a highly respected citizen died suddenly at ten o'clock Saturday night at his father's residence at Bridgeport, Ohio. He was fifty-six years old and had never married. In later years he was troubled with an affection of the heart, at times very acute. During the past summer he was treated for his ailment by physicians, but experienced only temporary relief. While sitting in a chair Saturday evening, he passed away quietly and without a struggle. He entered the Union army as a private in company A, Fifty-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry and served with distinction. At the close of the war he had command of his company. For many years after the war he was in the west and southwest. A few years ago he returned to his boyhood home, where he remained until he died. He was a son of Rev. Mr. Worthington.

"Sam," as he was familiarly called by his friends, was a bright-minded, genial, companionable boy and man and will be sadly missed by a large circle of friends who loved him.

The funeral services will be conducted at his father's residence Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. The interment will be at West's cemetery, and will be conducted by the G. A. R. post and lodge of the American Mechanics, of which he was a member. He was also a Mason.

FINE Hasenpfeffer Lunch will be served at Neill Quinn's, 1235 Market, Tuesday evening, November 22, from 7 to 11 p. m.

The "Duquesne Limited"—B. & O. New Fast Train.

On the new schedule effective November 20, a solid train—the "Duquesne Limited," will be run in each direction between Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, composed of Pullman sleeping cars and day coaches.

East bound the train will leave Pittsburgh at 5:45 p. m., arriving in New York at 7:45 a. m. Passengers desiring to take this train can leave Wheeling at 2:40 p. m.

West bound, the train will leave New York at 6 p. m., arriving in Pittsburgh at 8:10 a. m., connecting with train No. 103, and arriving in Wheeling at 10:25 a. m.

This new fast train service will no doubt prove to be of great advantage to the traveling public, and that it will be appreciated by them, goes without saying.

OHIO PYTHIANS

Of the Twenty-third District will Meet in Convention at

BELLAIRE EARLY NEXT MONTH.

ELABORATE ARRANGEMENTS ARE NOW BEING MADE BY BLACK PRINCE LODGE FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF THE VISITING KNIGHTS—THE FIRST PYTHIAN LODGE IN OHIO WAS ORGANIZED IN THIS DISTRICT. A NUMBER OF PROMINENT MEMBERS OF THE ORDER WILL ATTEND.

The call has been issued by District Deputy Grand Chancellor Martin Cowen for the annual convention of the Knights of Pythias of the Twenty-third Pythian district of the greatest of grand domains, Friday afternoon and evening, December 2.

Black Prince lodge No. 57, of Bellaire, has taken hold of this matter with a vim and vigor that means all previous district conventions will be outstripped and a high standard set for future events of this kind. It has voluntarily assumed the entire expense of this convention.

This district comprises Belmont, Jefferson and Harrison counties, which altogether have thirty lodges with a membership of about 2,000. Probably no district in the state supplies so much splendid material from which to arrange an interesting, entertaining and instructive programme.

These district conventions, which have proven to be of so much value to the order, are the outcome of a law enacted by the grand lodge in 1895, when in session at Cleveland. This law left it optional with the grand chancellor to hold or not these conventions; but, so valuable have they proven, that the session of the grand lodge of 1896, amended the law, making it compulsory on the part of the grand chancellor to call these conventions for each Pythian district in the state.

Pythianism found its first foothold in Ohio, and took its first step on Ohio's soil, in this district. Steuben Lodge, No. 1, of Steubenville, was the first chartered subordinate lodge in the state. It is still in existence and thriving, and will, no doubt, be largely represented at this convention.

Six of the thirty lodges in this district are numbered under 100, so, it is evident, that not only did this district produce the first subordinate lodge in Ohio, but, it early took hold of Pythianism, throughout the district, and deserves much credit for the marvellously rapid growth of the order in Ohio, which now is the banner grand domain of all the grand domains in the world.

All the grand officers will be present at this convention, and participate in the exercises. At least one of the past supreme chancellors and two of the supreme representatives will also be present, and a number of knights of prominent rank in the order and as citizens, have expressed their intention of attending and participating.

The programme which will be published next week, includes among others, General D. A. Hollingsworth and Dr. S. B. McGovern, of Harrison county; Hon. E. E. Erskine and Bob Love, of Jefferson county; Hon. J. B. Blackburn, Hon. C. L. Weems, Hon. C. J. Howard, N. K. Kennon, Judge J. W. Hollingsworth and Mr. H. T. Shepard, of Belmont county. The grand chancellor is down for a talk on the subject of these district conventions, and the vice grand chancellor and grand master at arms will tell something about what work is being accomplished through the Pythian Home.

The evening prior to this convention, Thursday evening, Black Prince's famous team, assisted by Arlington Division Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias and Arlington division band, will work the third rank in elaborate style. All knights who intend to be at the convention on Friday, will do well to come on Thursday and see this work.

Friday morning the industries of Bellaire, glass works, stamping works, steel works and enamel factories, will be open to the visiting knights. Those desiring to go through these establishments will meet the escort committees at Black Prince Castle Hall at 10 a. m.

In addition to the convention exercises Friday evening in Black Prince hall, the doors of Arlington division hall will be thrown open, where, free of expense, knights, who so wish, with their ladies, can trip the fantastic.

A CHOICE ENTERTAINMENT.

At the Y. M. C. A. to-night Mr. and Mrs. Francis Labadie will give their entertainment called "An Original Idea." The entertainment consists of selections from the works of the great authors with analytical and critical remarks in dialogue. Mr. and Mrs. Labadie will present "The Wooling Scene," Shakespeare's Richard III, "The March to Bosworth Field," Richard III, "The Trial Scene," Merchant of Venice, and "A Happy Pair." The last scene represents a young couple five months after marriage. A more humorous scene could hardly be depicted.

THANKSGIVING GATHERING.

The managers of the Children's Home have had sacks distributed throughout the city for the annual offering to the Home. This method of securing donations was begun in the year 1890, and has been continued to the present. The response has always been generous, and the gifts received through the sacks during the Thanksgiving season have contributed largely to the maintenance of that worthy institution. The lady managers ask for a liberal offering of cereals, potatoes, flour, coffee, fruits, and all such useful articles needed in a home. The sacks will be called for on Friday and Saturday of this week.

LITTLE INTEREST TAKEN

By the Public in the Harbor Line Hearing at Martin's Ferry Yesterday—The Railroad's Desires will Probably be Granted.

The hearing upon the application of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad Company for the privilege of the extension of their road beyond the harbor line of the Ohio river near the Acina Standard mill, which was set for yesterday morning, was commenced shortly after 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and lasted less than a half an hour. The government was represented by Major C. P. Powell, of Pittsburgh; Major Bixby, of Cincinnati, who has charge of improvements in the Ohio river, and Captain Zinn, of the Louisville district, while the railroad was represented by Assistant Engineer Bissell. Captain John F. Dravo, of Pittsburgh, president of the Pittsburgh coal exchange, and Captain Lyle, also of Pittsburgh, represented the river interests.

As this was advertised as a public hearing, in order that the sentiment of the people in reference to the matter could be had, it was a misnomer, as there were less than a half dozen citizens present. Upon examination it was found that the Wheeling & Lake Erie tracks already extend beyond the harbor line at a point near the furnace. The results of the meeting will not be known until the report is filed, but it is quite likely that the railroad company will be allowed to lay the track according to the original survey.
